MAYA TAYLOR, Violin Soloist

Maya Taylor is a senior at Albuquerque Academy and has been studying violin for the last twelve years. Aside from participating in her school orchestra under Mr. Johnathan Armerding and serving as editor of the Academy's school newspaper, Maya also swims for Duke City Aquatics and volunteers her time on Sundays at Chatter, an innovative nonprofit organization that presents dozens of concerts each year in unconventional venues and features new and traditional classical music. Maya's primary academic interests include in math, social studies, and languages, and while she intends to continue playing violin after she graduates from high school, she is not planning on majoring in music in college.

Maya is grateful for her current private teacher, Ruxandra Marquardt. "Over the last couple years, Mrs. Marquardt has made me into the musician that I am today by constantly pushing me as a teacher but also standing by me as a friend. She expects the best but understands the worst." Maya is also appreciative of her previous private teacher, Laurie Lopez, who helped her set her musical foundation. "Without Mrs. Lopez, I would never be where I am now."

Maya acknowledges the unwavering love and support of her parents, Mark and Monika, throughout her successful musical career to date. "I would like to thank my parents, for not only starting me on violin and forcing me to practice until I learned to love it, but for being my support through all of my musical endeavors. They've given me the freedom to decide for myself how much music means to me, and they have followed through every time I mentioned I wanted to pick up a new instrument or join a new musical group. My parents fostered my love of music by recognizing my potential and proceeding to let me discover it for myself, and for that I can never thank them enough."

"AYSP has made an incredibly impact on my musical life. In 9th grade, I was the quiet kid at the back of the section, but the program renewed my love for music as well as my love for musicians, and I have changed for the better not only as a musician but as a person."
